There must not be a contingency; the nation's wealth must be such, that no matter what may be the result of the cause of the emergency, the nation is able to redeem its pledges. This is strikingly the case in cur Government. From the beginning, it was known that a United States note, whether the rebellion was crushed or not, would be eventually redeemed, in specie or at a high premium in the rebel States. This ourrency, doubtful and trashy as it ie at beet, ie based, as our readers know, mainly upon the Southern staples of ootton and tobacco. What will be thought, then, of the recent sweeping order of the rebai Congress to burn all such staples as may probably fall into our hands? They first borrow what money they can from capitalis's upon these staples, and then barn the etaples. It may be said, however, that these staples would be confiscated at all evente. This is not so, and known not to be so. Any citizen can ship his cotton or tebacce to the loyal States, if within the lines of our army, and receive a value in return. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. It has been frequently done in spite of the rebel act. If they ever expected to recover the territory which they had lost, there can be no excuse to them for euch an order. If the s'aples were not there, the money, which is what the staples are expected to bring, would be there, which is far better. In that event a temperary success of our army would be a positive injury to the loyal States and a benefit to rebellion. We have read of an Irisb mob in Dublin which, in a fit of generous indignation, ecized all the notes of a bank which had offended them, and burnt them in one giorious conflagration, thus destroying the bank's promises to pay. The rebel Congress, supposing they believe what success, have perpetrated an act similarly

There is one reason for the act, and only one. They believe, or rather they know, popular detestation in that latitude. their pretestations to the contrary notwithstanding, that whatever territory is occuwill never go into the rebel treasury. It is this which sotnates them. Acts, even rebel acts of Congress, sometimes speak louder than words, and this is one of them. Every bale of cotton and hogshead of tobacco they destroy is an explicit declaration that the rebellion is a failure. The object of the destruction is to deprive our people of those | pregnable. staples, and if the curse of their incendiariem falls also upon those who have been citizens of the rebel States it makes little difference to the rebels, as they know they

REPORT

Gentlemen: Since our last annual report, the various improvements therein mentioned as necessary to finish and proteof the works. have been nearly completed. The approaching season will enable us to finish them ontirely, leaving only such future outlays as, from time to time, the ability of the company shall enable them to make, in ornamenting and beautifying the grounds. The past year has been one of unprecedented gloom and apprehension. Simultaneously with the turning of the water into the city, commenced that political panio which, overspreading the whole country, trust for the future, that few have felt safe in making any further outlays, and all have re renched their expenses, dispensing with everything that could possibly be done

Owing to this state of the public mind, the patronage of the water works has not been so great as it would otherwise have been. But amid all the troubles and disgratified in being able to state that the in-come now being derived from the works has

The signs of the times, though still not free from painful solicitude, are decidedly more oheering than they have been, and the indications now are that the troubles of the country will soon be brought to a successful fidence, and a revival of business and trade, and we may confidently look for a very large accession to our list of consumers.

The works have been in operation for over sixteen months, and have performed, in every respect, as well as we had hoped, giving entire satisfaction.

The incessant rains during the present winter, accompanied with the flood-hight of the Ohio river, have severely tested our reaervoir embankment and engine-house foundfrom all apprehersions for the future. All now required to render the water

Every consideration of comfort and economy invites to this. The more liberal the patronage, the more rapid will be the matter upon the next Congress. It will be extension of pipes, and the sooner shail we a much wieer body than this, and will be relieved from taxation to pay the interest on the bonds issued to build the works.

All earnings above current expenses should be devoted to pipe extension, until the water can be taken for family or manufacturing purposes, or will afford protection to property from fire.

The expense of furnishing two hundred thousand inhabitants, in addition to the few already supplied by the water works, would he nothing save the cost of additional fuel It would involve no increase of officers or

The average oost per square, of laying four or six inch pipe, will not exceed $450. There are perhaps ten miles of streets at diatribes of those who remained safely at this time in the city to be laid; which would five per cent. upon the cost of laying the pipes, besides the protection that would be afforded property from fire. How important then, when the investment will make so large a return, that the enterprise should have the most liberal encouragement, both from our oilizens and the city in her corporate capacity, so as to swell the income to as large an amount as possible and enable the company to make the necessary extensions. There is too much capital invested in the water works to permit the neglect of any attainable means to render it as active and produotive as possible. The Fire Department has been supplied by the water works ever since the water was first turned into the city, and up to this time the company has not been paid a cent for the same. This, no doubt, has been owing to the financial troubles under which the city has been herself laboring. But it is to be hoped that at an early day shs will be so far relieved from her embarrasements as to enable her to pay afair and liberal remuneration for the water used by complain if they are required to pay for it. If this plan should be adopted, wherever water is introduced into any property, the taxes upon that piece of property should be oredited by the water rent paid. The effect of this system would be to cause the water to be introduced into nearly every dwellinghouse, store, shop and manufacturing establishment within the water district. For when it becomes generally known that it ten chances to one of not meeting a fleet in coets no more to have water than to do its passage capable of stopping it. We without it, there are very few, we presume, who would not take it.

After the water shall be generally faken, such is the capacity of the works and the economy with which they have been built, very low tariff of charges wili not only pay the interest on the water bonds and running expenses, but will oreste a STOCKHOLDERS IN THE LOUISVILLE WATER sinking fund out of which the bonds thema selves can be retired long before maturity, and relieve our citizens satirely from all taxation on account of the water works.

It is not expected this plan will give universal satisfaction, for it is almost impossible to establish any general rule of taxation which will bear equally upon al; that subject, and we can perceive through still we know of no system that will more the proud declarations of the British papers nearly approximate equality than the one expressions of sorrow—sighs rapidly supproposed.

The city of Louisville has issued bonds to the amount of $956,000 00 to build the water works. The interest on these bonds has to be paid, either by direct taxation or from the earnings of the works. The works cannot carn a revenue unless our oitizens take the water. If the water is generally taken, we repeat, the revenue derived from the water rents will pay the interest; and of it is not generally taken, then the interest must continue to be paid by direct taxation. The least that ought to be done, in our opinion, is, to make the extension of the pipes general, and place the water within the reach of every property holder, and leave it optionary with him to receive water for the taxes he pays, or continue to pay his taxes and do without water, as he may The works belong to our oitizens. It is for them to patronize them and be entirely relieved of taxes, or refuse to patronize them and continue to pay the taxes. as heretofore, without deriving any benefit from them.

We hope these suggestions will have the earnest attention of the Council; that in dealing with the Water-Works they will not forget they belong almost entirely to the ofty, and that every facility they can afford to extend the operations of works adds so much to the wealth and presperity of the whole city.

In the management of this enterprise an especial eye has been had to steering olear of pecuniary involvemente; and we have so far succeeded that to day, as will be seen by the Secretary's Report, the Company have ample means to pay every dollar they

On the Venezuela engines each driving wheel is six feet in diameter, and there are two small steering wheels in front Tho large driving wheel was furnished with sixty-six teeth on an inner rim, and it reocived its motion from the pisten through pinion gearing similar to that of several engines for common roads which have been illustrated in the Scientific American. The parts of the two engines were put together at Laguayra, and their route was to Caraocas, distant only seven miles in a straigh line, but twenty-seven miles by the wild. orooked mountain road which rises one foot in seven, and attains a total elevation of seven thousand feet. We have been informed by a gentleman from Venezuela that these engines traveled up this steep road, drawing several oars with perfect safety, and yet it is a dangerous pathway for single horse carriages, as it is so narrow in some places that there is soarcely a foot to spare between the pathway and the precipioes one thousand feet in depth. The people of Caracoas were astonished when they beheld these engines traveling up their mountain road, entering their town, and turning their narrow streets with perfect ease, drawing ten wagons loaded with ooal behind them. This is the greatest feat of mountain traveling, we believe, that has ever been performed by the steam engine

WHAT ENGLAND HAS LOST BY THE AMERI-CAN WAR -A remarkable statement has recently been made by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the British llouse of Commons, Great Destruction of Cotton in an efficer corresponding with our Secretary of the Treasury. He says the dispatch of troops to British North America, in view of a war with this country, cost $4,250,000. In addition to this, in 1860, the exports to the United States amounted to $108,835,-000; in 186i they fell to $45 290,000—d.minution in one year, $63,045,000. Still greater than this is the loss of the raw material of the industry of England, cut off by the blockade of the Southern States. A decline of revenue has also resulted from the war, and, to enhance this loss, it is now admitted that the immense wooden floet of England, on which so much money has been expended, is necless; and the came is true of her fortifications This has been demonstrated by the action in Hampton Roads, and is now further confirmed by the reduction of Fort Pulacki. But what is still more alarming, the naval supremacy of England is in imminent danger, and perhaps the day is not distant when she will lose her high position in the scale of nations, and sink to a third or fourth rate Power, if she does not wholly tose her independence and become annexed to France, or at least be revolutionized by the overthrow of the British oligarchy. How true is it that the American war is destined to affect all Europe almost in the same degree as the war of independence did, when it kindled the French revolution, whose infinences are in operation to the present day. If England has incurred great losses by the American war, and if she is yet to suffer more serious calamities from it, she may thank her aristocracy, who fomented the rebellion in the United States.

Several petitions were filed, and If the Galens arrived in Hampton roads on Wednesday, as reported by passengers from Fortress Monroe, she has already proved herself a fine sea boat, as she left and designers claim that she is to prove even more effective in action as well as as invalnerable as the Monitor, than which she is the larger and heavier armed vessel by the by. If she fuifills their expectations he will make a revolution in naval opinion relative to the best model for iron-c ad steamers, the belief (since the fight of the Merrimao and Monitor, and the alleged failure in sea going qualities of the English steamer Black Warrior) being that iron ships are to prove of little value, except as armed rams for harbor defenses.

Ilse arrival in Hampton Roads must at once change the strategy of our navy in that quarter, as it gives ne signal advantages, which we do not regard it as being prudent

Among its effects, it strikes us, will be to compet the rebels to risk the Merrimao in another engagement semewhere where our arrangements for disposing of her can have fair and full play.

This statement will do much to relieve apprehensions in regard to the Merrimac.

A BOLD YARKER -A man in Federal uniform rode into Fayetteville, Tenn, on Sunday last, conversed freely with the oitizens, said he belonged to an Ouio regi-ment, allowed a citizen, who asked permission, to examine his gnn, removing the cap before handing it to him, dined at a tavern with his gnn on his lap at the table, had his horse fed and left. The citizens thought him one of Morgan's men, netwithstanding his representation. A short time however, they were undrocived. Coming four or five miles on the road to Huntsville, he overtook an old white man with four negroes, and three wegons of bacon: he forced them to drive their wagons olose together, put fodder under them, taks out the mnles and retire a few steps. Then, lighting a match, he set fire to the wagers. consuming them and their contents. Riding to a church, a few miles distant, where preaching was going on, he asked the minister if any soldiers were there, and saying if there were he wanted them. ceiving a negative answer he rode away, and crossed the road ten miles this side of Fayetteville, with two other Federals. That is the jast we have heard of them. The owner of the bacon and wagons returned to Fayetteville with his negroes and mu'es, and reported his misfortune. Several mon went in pursuit of the bold maranders, but failed to find them -Huntsville Democrat, 9th.

Refugees report that merchants of avowed secession proclivities are removing their goods to places of concealment and secresy. Large numbers of families are moving away daily. The idea of burning the town is abandoned, in consequence of the determined opposition of property holdiers.

It is ourrently reported at Memphis that
Beauregard has not over 80,000 troops now at Corinth, and that there is no hope of his successfully resisting Halleck, who is believed to have 200,000 men. As our informant left Memphis, it was re:

HABRISONBURG, VA., April 28.-Through secession channels it was learned that the Governor of North Carolina was arrested, and imprisoned in Richmond two weeks ago, on account of his Union sentiments.

It was observed to-day that Jackson had drawn his wagon train back six miles since yesterday, indicating his intention to retire still further rearward, or else entertaining dread of an attack on him by our forces.
